

Sherelyn's September Sampler 2023

Dear Sampler Friend

I was hoping this would be my final sneak peek of this sampler with all the details of what to do to participate, plus all the costs for requirements and alternative choices of fabric and threads.

However, I have "fallen into a very large hole" and having some difficulty climbing out of it.

The problem was/is one of the dividing rows. I stitched it as I had charted it - but didn't like the effect - and so ripped it out.

Since then have stitched two alternative stitch styles and not liked either of these and so these too have been ripped out. The overall design will not change - just have to think on and decide what to do for this particular row.

Below is another sneak peek at the top third of the sampler.

Thank you to everyone who has already committed themselves and requested this design.

I truly do hope to have the final costings to you very soon
And too, the chart & instructions for the top third of this sampler.

Your Needlework Friend,
Sherelyn

A sneak peek at the top third of the sampler