

What's New At Heirlooms?

Magazines: New issues of two of the most popular magazines have arrived. They are -
SANQ 72 - Sampler & Antique Needlework Quarterly (Vol. 72 - Fall 2013): As per usual, several reproduction samplers in this issue - Ellenor Whitehouse 1787 (a trio of alphabets, two long verses & a bottom band of various motifs), Sarah Jaggard 1850 (simple motifs & alphabets in autumnal shades & stitched entirely with cross stitches) and Ruth Passmore 1804 (an ambitious sampler that features a detailed colour palette and specialty stitches, including queen stitches in the border and a plethora of over-one stitches throughout the sampler). Also included in this issue is a biographical journey into the family history of sampler maker Ruth Passmore and the Passmore family of Pennsylvania, plus an article examining a group of samplers and embroidery pieces worked by various family groups in 18th and 19th century New England. And, owning and carrying keys, seals and expensive sewing tools was the privilege of the chatelaine, the lady of the castle, or in France, the mistress of the chateau. An informative article on the important role of chatelaines as part of a woman's daily attire in former times, and the journey of this object from medieval times to the 19th century. $21.50
