Dear Needlework Friends,

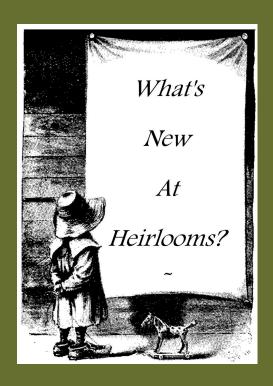

As mentioned in my September newsletter, attended the Gift Fair in August and purchased some lovely items for gift giving at Christmas or for one to purchase to decorate their home or to use themselves. Many of the items have already been purchased by visitors to the Needlework Gallery but some items are still available.

I've been busy designing again. The latest piece will be available as one of the options to stitch during January as part of the Sampler Blessings Challenge.

As for stitching, I have finished a Christmas stocking design which I have created as a gift for my friend Cece of The Thread Gatherer. Sadly she lost her son, Gage, to suicide a few years ago and so each December (5th - 25th) she offers stocking designs via her Etsy store for sale with all the revenue raised during these dates given to a suicide prevention & mental health support organisation - Friends for Survival. Please thoughtfully consider being of help by purchasing a design at this time.

Other stitching I mentioned in my September newsletter was that I had begun and finished the stitching of a Christmas stocking that I had designed before the flood. I had hoped to make it up over the last month, write the instructions, photograph it and publish it by now - but didn't achieve any of these tasks. However will give you a sneak peek at it.

I sincerely hope you will see something in this newsletter to inspire you. Your Needlework Friend, Sherelyn
